FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Women in Standards Announces the Addition of Marianna Kramarikova to the Board of Directors

July 01, 2021 – The Women in Standards is proud to announce the addition of Marianna Kramarikova to the organization's Board of Directors. Marianna is a technical officer at the International Electrotechnical Commission (IEC) where she manages 23 technical, systems and advisory committees and liaises with technical experts from around the world.

Marianna has extensive knowledge of the development of voluntary, consensus-based industry standards for a variety of ICT segments and will bring her knowledge of standardization and international outreach to the Women in Standards.

“To be a Woman in Standards brings vast advantages and also challenges. I am thrilled to get an opportunity to serve on the Board of WiS. I commit to contribute time towards the goal to come together to grow and strengthen the standardization field and promote issues of inclusion and diversity.” – Marianna Kramarikova, Technical Officer at the International Electrotechnical Commission (IEC).

“The Women in Standards is honored to have Marianna join the Board of Directors. Her understanding of the industry and experience working with individuals from around the world brings new perspective and insights to our work and I look forward to collaborating with her” said Women in Standards Executive Officer and Board President, Karin Athanas.
